- 3- In the Users tab, there are different options available.
- Add a new user to your company
 - Add a new company and its users (for example an engineering firm for which you would like to give access to make selections only). To create a new user, provide user details and then press Done.

Note: When creating a new user, the User Type is set automatically to Engineer. To set the user to Representative or Head Representative, contact us. Representative and Head Representative accounts have access to pricing while Engineer accounts have access only to selections.

Advantages of our online Humidisoft online sizing and selection software:

- Automatic humidification load calculation
- Allows the selection of the humidifier model and available options
- Display Absorption Distance
- Steam Dispersion Selection
- Allows you to create equipment schedule and specification
- Generates approval specification sheet
- Saves your project history in a database
- Project management
